QUESTION 1

We are all well aware of the term GI Joe. In fact he actually served United States Army during the World War II. During the Italian Campaign, air support had been previously requested against German positions at Calvi Vecchia on 18 October 1943. The 169th London Infantry Brigade attacked and won back the village from the Germans ahead of schedule but they were unable to transmit a message via radio to call off the planned American air raid. G.I. Joe was dispatched as a last resort to carry the message just in time to avoid the Allied air force from bombing their own men. G.I. Joe covered 20 mile distance in an impressive 20 minutes time. Over 100 men were saved. What was so special about GI Joe that he was selected as last resort for this mission?

ANSWER 1

GI Joe was a pigeon

QUESTION 2

X is a form of headgear designed to expose only part of the face. Versions with enough of an opening may be rolled into a hat to cover the head or folded down as a collar around the neck. It is commonly used in winter sports and motorsports. The name comes from its use at the Battle of X during the Crimean War of 1854, referring to the town in the Crimea. Handmade Xs were sent to the British troops to help protect them from the bitterly cold weather.

QUESTION 5

According to the Devi Bhagavata Purana, the Halahalas were a sect of asuras who were the first creation of the Trimurtis. They became very powerful within a short period of time and conquered the three worlds. When they barricaded Kailasha and Vaikuntha, Vishnu and Shiva defeated them after a fierce fight lasting for a thousand years. The deities returned to their abodes and spoke about their achievements. Their wives laughed at the bravado of their husbands. At this, the husbands got angry with the wives, and in protest the Devis left their husbands. From that day onwards, Vishnu and Shiva began losing their power. When Brahma convinced Devis to return to support their husbands, he brought a change that led to what we now know about Trimurtis.
What change?

ANSWER 5

Shiva and Vishnu could no longer be the creators of life, only Brahma can create life

QUESTION 6

While there is no definitive proof where the idea of X comes from, it certainly has its naval heritage. ____ were lowered just enough to leave room for an invisible ___ to fill the void - the invisible ____ of death. Such an incident was documented in 1612 following the death of English explorer John Hall during an expedition to Greenland. While he was on his boarding boat, he was struck by a spear thrown by a native, perhaps in retaliation to the capture and imprisoning of four Inuits seven years earlier. When the ship, Heart's Ease, sailed back to England, it uniquely honoured its captain and this tradition is followed in countries nowadays as well.

QUESTION 7

___ ___ is an atomic bomb dropped on the city of Nagasaki, Japan, on August 9, 1945. Its use was the second and last time that nuclear weapons were employed in war. It had a spherical core of plutonium-239 surrounded by high explosives. "Little Boy" was the codename for the atomic bomb that was dropped on Hiroshima on August 6, 1945 and it was named so, as a reference to its relatively simple design compared to the more complex implosion-type bomb used in the second bombing named ___ ___. As visible in the names of these bombs, the explosive yield of ___ ___ was 10 times that of Little Boy, making it a preferable weapon. The fact that the diameter is larger than the length of the second bomb is also a reason it has been named that way.

QUESTION 8

"X Advance Under a Gas Attack" is an engraving by Otto Dix, depicting German soldiers in combat during the First World War. In this, Dix has portrayed five soldiers, their faces obscured by gas masks, advancing on an enemy line through No Man's Land under the cover of a gas attack. The soldiers, despite their inhuman appearance due to the masks, appear even more menacing as they move in and out of the gas-induced haze. This haunting image captures the dehumanizing and terrifying nature of warfare during that era.

ID X, the name given to these soldiers in the painting.

QUESTION 9

Once upon a time, there was this country that was having a bit of a family feud. The elder side was all about sharing everything equally and wearing matching outfits, while the younger side was into freedom, individuality, and a bit more bling.
So, they start squabbling, but things really heat up when an uncle from across the ocean decides to step in. This uncle thinks he can sort out the family fight with some tough love and explaining.
But it turns out, this family feud isn't so easy to solve and the elder side has some pretty sneaky tactics and knows the jungle like the back of their hand.

QUESTION 9

So the fight goes on, even though the uncle tried his best. After years of back-and-forth, with everyone tired and muddy, Uncle finally decides it's time to head home and let the family figure things out on their own.
Spoiler alert: The elder eventually wins and they all wear matching outfits again.

Which family are we talking about?

QUESTION 10

In a resurfaced video on social media, Cillian Murphy was seen meeting with Prince Harry during a world premiere of Dunkirk in 2017. While the video appeared to be quite normal, eagle-eyed watchers spotted that Murphy had a spiteful look in the eye for the royal and made a gesture that has a long history amongst the Irish as a sign of protest.
In the 1920, during the Ireland's War of Independence, the order was given that men making that particular gesture will be shot. It was generally viewed that men making that gesture was an object of suspicion. Since then, the Irish use that gesture as sign of protest in a simple yet effective way. What gesture is being talked about?

ANSWER 10

Hands in pocket

QUESTION 11

The origin of the term X has a very interesting background. During Winter War, the Soviet foreign minister made a declaration on state radio that the incendiary bombing missions over Finland were actually "airborne humanitarian food deliveries" for their "starving" neighbours. The Finns sarcastically dubbed these incendiary bombings as “_____ bread baskets”. As a result, when the Finns developed the hand-held bottle firebomb to attack and destroy Soviet tanks, they called it the X as "a drink to go with his food parcels” as pejorative reference to that foreign minister.

QUESTION 12

As soon as King Goujian of Yue took the throne, he had to deal with an invading army. He didn't have much experience in leading a country or an army yet. He knew that fear and the element of surprise were important, so he tried them out—by having his men do the absolute last thing anyone would expect in a war. He marched his men out onto the battlefields and had them stare the enemy in the eye. Then his front line had people that did an action ordered by the King while the rest of the army charged into battle. The invading army didn't know what to make of this action, except that it was freaky, shocking and horrifying to watch it.

QUESTION 12

The enemy army, now convinced that they were fighting complete sociopaths, was scared out of their wits. Their formations broke, and their lines fell—and Goujian won his victory. Even the people employed for this action were chosen such that it was a winning situation for the kingdom despite the people being a part of his kingdom.

What action and which people?

ANSWER 12

Made criminals slit their own throats

QUESTION 13

In AD 755, Yin Ziqi led his army to invade the Tang Empire. General Zhang Xun on the opposing side however, faced one major obstacle: he had no idea what Yin Ziqi looked like. To overcome this, Zhang Xun devised a clever ruse.

Zhang Xun ordered his men to stop defending their position with real weapons. Instead, every soldier in his army was issued a pack of harmless, brightly colored streamers tied to sticks. When Yin Ziqi's men approached and saw these weak little things being waved at them, they became convinced that Zhang Xun's army was out of real weapons. They rushed over to report it to Yin Ziqi.

QUESTION 13

Yin Ziqi was now sure that he was up against a powerless enemy, and he charged forward confidently. But Zhang Xun’s men had hidden their real weapons behind them. As soon as Yin Ziqi's forces were within range, Zhang Xun gave the signal, and his soldiers unleashed a volley of deadly projectiles.

What was the clever tactic the General came up with?

ANSWER 13

He ordered his soldiers to use straw and draw out Yin Ziqi

QUESTION 14

In 1861, there lived an American grocer named Wilmer McLean near Virginia. The kitchen of his house was destroyed by cannonball dropped by the Union Artillery through the fireplace to eliminate the Confederates who made his house their headquarters. Disturbed with all of these, he decided to shift his house to Appomattox because he wanted to protect his family from a repetition of their combat experience. Few years later, the war revisited his house. General Lee sent a messenger to request him to use his house. McLean reluctantly agreed. This became a historic moment in the context of the civil war.

Why was this house used again?

ANSWER 14

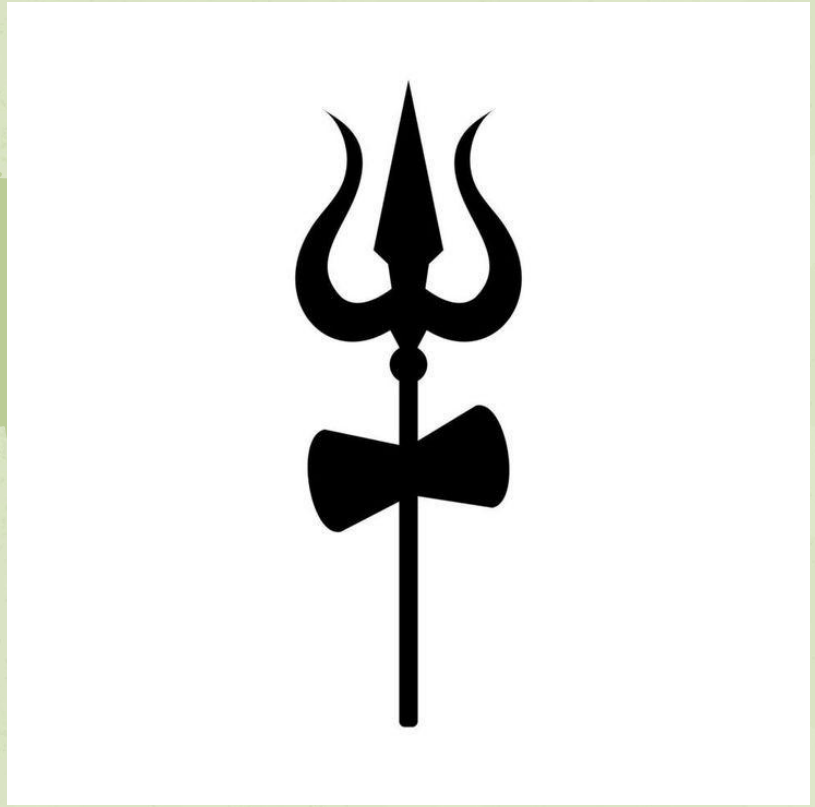

The civil war started in his house and ended in his house as a peace treaty was signed there
